A Re-Endorsement

October 3 is an uncommon date for an election day, consequently it is important that people who keep track of their civic responsibilities assume the added responsibility of alerting others to the decision that must be made next week.

A special election will be held to fill the 12th District vacancy in the Massachusetts House of Representatives, the seat which was contested in a primary earlier this month. The contest has narrowed, making the choice more difficult for Andover voters perhaps since candidates from this community were nominated on both the Democratic and Republican tickets.

The TOWNSMAN, however, continues to regard Paul W. Cronin as the most qualified man in the race.

Cronin has been active in grassroots politics and government ever since he determined while still a student that he would become involved. In 1963 he was elected to the Andover Board of Selectmen, the youngest man ever to hold a seat on that board. At the end of his term, he left private industry to work as administrative aide to Congressman F. Bradford Morse which has given him a background in state and federal procedures and policies. This practical experience reinforces his formal education in economics and government.

It is an impressive record for a young man, one his opponent cannot match.

The 12th District needs a man on Capitol Hill who will give the people of a highly diversified district vocal representation. Paul W. Cronin can do the job.

Bartow Heads Committee To Draft School Use Plans

Recreation Director Leslie Bartow has been named chairman of a special committee to study the feasibility of making town-owned school facilities more readily available to the public after hours, particularly at the new senior high school when it is opened.

The committee was appointed by Supt. Edward I. Erickson after School Committeeman William A. Doherty suggested that the board consider permitting operation of a teen center in the new building, along with other use of the gym, cafeteria and shop.

Guidance Director William Igoe is vice chairman of the committee and Jack Berberian, general

Both House Candidates Are Andover Residents

Paul W. Cronin is the Republican candidate for the House seat vacated by Andover Atty. Arthur Williams last spring when he resigned to join the staff of Gov. John A. Volpe.

For the past two years the former Selectman has worked as administrative aide to U. S. Congressman F. Bradford Morse (R-Mass.), Fifth District representative to the U. S. House.

Long an active worker for the Republican Party at every level, Cronin has served as a precinct worker, captain and member of the executive committee of the Andover Republican Town Committee. He has been active in many campaigns at the congressional and state levels and served as delegate to state conventions in 1962, 1964 and 1966.

In 1964 Cronin tried unsuccessfully for the GOP nomination for 12th district representative.

Former Andover School Committeeman Vincent P. Davey is the Democratic candidate for the 12th District vacancy in the Massachusetts House.

Active in party politics for a number of years, Davey has been a member of the Andover Democratic Town Committee and also served as aide-de-camp to former Lt. Governor Francis X. Bellotti during the administration of Gov. Endicott Peabody. The candidate was closely associated with the campaigns of both the late President John F. Kennedy and Sen. Edward M. Kennedy.

Davey was the Democratic nominee for a 12th district seat in the 1964 election and he also entered the primary race in 1966. A teacher in the English department at Melrose High School, the local man was elected to the Andover School Committee in 1962 and served until 1965.

Fate Of 495 Scenery Discussed At Seminar

Concerned citizens and members of conservation commissions, boards of selectmen, and planning boards in 19 out of 26 towns and cities bordering Route 495 gathered for an all-day session on Saturday, at Hudson High School, Hudson, Mass., to discuss the future of Route 495.

The theme of the conference - Exposure 495 - a seminar to shape the face of a highway - was explored in morning and afternoon panel discussions by experts representing such diverse interests as chambers of commerce, the power industry, and conservation groups. If there was a common thread to their remarks, it was that the benefits that a great and scenic highway can bring to an entire region could be lost through lack of careful planning, helter skelter development, and thoughtless disregard of the necessity for preserving scenic beauty.

Russell cited Morse for his "pioneering efforts in helping to increase employment opportunities for our nation's handicapped citizens." The congressman was active in working with the committee on which he served as Deputy Administrator of Veterans' Affairs from 1958 to 1960, and has maintained a lively interest in the work of the Committee during his four terms in Congress.

The ZBA has granted a variance to Peter and Nicolette Relatis of Evergreen Ln. to divide a parcel of land into two lots. Though some residents of the area objected at the hearing, the board ruled that the four-acre lot involved is landlocked and that to refuse the permit would result in substantial hardship to the owner.

In a second decision, the appeal board has given Allen D. Tellier, 151 Shawsheen Rd. permission to construct a two car garage on his property in violation of a previous board decision regarding extension of the existing dwelling toward lot lines. The board ruled that to grant the variance would not be in derogation from the intent of the zoning bylaw.

Margaret B. Calderwood, 18 Karlton Cir., has received Zoning Board clearance for her plan to rent an existing room to students. The permit was granted for a five year period and is good for the petitioner only.

At the hearing, it was pointed out that the petitioner's health is such that it is desirable to have someone on the premises when her children are absent.

A former Andover girl will be among the bridesmaids for the marriage of Lynda Bird Johnson at the White House to Marine Captain Charles S. Robb, Miss Phyllis Bonanno, 24, who works at McCall's Magazine with Miss Johnson, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred D. Bonanno of Stamford, Conn. The family lived at 29 Enmore St. in Shawsheen Village where they were Andover residents.

Harold J. McCaig Jr. of Roxbury pleaded guilty to breaking and entering two Washington Park apartments on March 15 last year when the case was heard in Superior Court Tuesday. McCaig, 30, is serving a six-to-eight year sentence at Walpole State Prison.

for armed robbery. He was sentenced this week to serve currently not less than four nor more than six years in the same prison for the Andover breaks.

Class enrollment at the town's summer school dropped this year from the 475 of 1966 to 404. The school offered 23 classes instead of the 25 made available a year ago.

Daniel J. Worcester of Westboro, a former Andover resident, has been appointed coordinator of Commonwealth Service Corps programs. He will be responsible for directing all Corps programs for volunteers throughout the state.

Worcester was previously Service Corps regional director in Worcester, and before that director of the Migrant Education Project for the Service Corps in the Andover center. Before joining the Service Corps staff, he was a special teacher of retarded children in the public school of Stoneham.

The names of two men are on a Civil Service certification list for appointment to a vacancy for a permanent appointment to the police department.

They are: Richard W. Enos, 35 Clark Rd. and Ronald H. Hargerty, 14 Foster Cir. The position pays $5520.

Fourth graders at Central and Sanborn schools will participate in a pilot swim program which is to be held for 13 weeks at the Phillips Academy pool beginning Oct. 2.

The program will be conducted by Richard Swift and Mrs. Dorothy Christopher of the public school physical education staff. Fourth graders have been selected because of their ability at that age to acquire athletic skills.

Philip K. Allen, chairman of the Andover Board of Selectmen, is one of seven persons named by Gov. John A. Volpe to serve on a Massachusetts Compact for Education.

The compact calls for establishment and maintenance of close cooperation and understanding among executive, legislative, professional, educational and lay leadership on a nationwide basis at state and local levels in the field of education. It also provides for a forum for discussion and recommendation of public policy alternatives in the field of education and for a clearing house of information.

Announcement of a large real estate transaction involving a number of prime acres in one of Andover's two major industrial zones is expected within the week. Officials aware of developments said this week that they are not yet in a position to release anything on the subject.

Patrolman Francis Donahue Jr. discovered a break at Friendly Ice Cream on Saturday when he made a check of doors at 5:55 a.m. Entry to the restaurant was made through a window. At last report, the management had not discovered a loss. The investigation continues.

Miss Sabina Bush of 63 Osgood St. reported this week that her house had been ransacked and a $500 diamond ring taken. Access to the house was gained through an unlocked bathroom window during daylight hours.

The Board of Selectmen decided this week that it would not accept new permissive legislation which would permit the serving of liquor and dancing in public places after midnight on Saturdays.

The question arose because of a request from the Elks Club for late-hour dancing and the sale of liquor on Sunday morning, Dec. 31.

The motion to continue with the present town regulation of forbidding both activities on Sunday in Andover was made by Robert A. Watters. Selectman Stewart seconded. Selectman Sidney P. White did not record a vote.

Others on the committee are: School Committeewoman Virginia H. Cole, Doherty, Principal Dorothy Partridge of East Junior High School, Rev. Paul Keyes, Rev. J. Allyn Bradford, Mrs. David Woodworth and Mrs. George Piercy.

The committee met Tuesday to organize and set its goals. It was decided that primary consideration should be given to proposals for use of new high school facilities, but that the opening of other buildings after school hours should also be studied.

It was also agreed that the emphasis should be on the feasibility of school use by teenagers, but that other groups should be considered.

The committee will first attempt to establish that there is a need for the sort of program suggested and it will also check to see what programs other towns operate in school buildings.

Bartow said Wednesday that his committee is interested in hearing from groups in the town that would like to make use of school facilities if they were made available.

Forty-four photographs from the outstanding private collection of Mr. and Mrs. David H. McAlpin will be on view at the John-Esther Art Gallery at Abbot Academy from Oct. 3 to Oct. 16. A circulating exhibition of the Museum of Modern Art, New York, it shows major works by four masters of American photography - Edward Weston, Charles Sheeler, Ansel Adams and Brett Weston. Selections for the show were made by John Szarkowski, director of the museum's department of photography.

The McAlpin Collection is one of the significant private collections of photography. "Not only do the individual works in the collection reflect high critical standards," Szarkowski has said, "but the collection as a whole expresses a vigorous, personal perspective. The collection reflects the concerns and aspirations of the artists whose work it represents." First among these shared concerns has been an interest in the unspoiled natural scene of this country's unique wilderness areas - which photography has done so much to record, interpret and preserve.

The photographs exhibited reflect this feeling in Edward Weston's famed interpretations of the dunes of Oceano in California and his photographs taken at Aspen Valley and White Sands, N. M.; Ansel Adams' views of Old Faithful Geyser at Yellowstone National Park, Mt. Williamson in California, and clouds over the Sierra Nevada Mountains; and Brett Weston's photographs of Nevada dunes, the Sierras, and Yosemite National Park. The subjects also include urban and rural architecture, and an homage to industrial forms in Charles Sheeler's "Meta-Mold", Cedarburg, Wis. Two were taken outside the United States, one being from Sheeler's well-known series on Chartres Cathedral.

The exhibit is on view Mondays through Fridays, 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and Sundays, 2 to 5. The public is cordially invited to attend the opening of the show the night of Oct. 2 from 8 to 10 p.m.

Andover League Schedules Drive

On Monday, Oct. 2, the League of Women Voters will launch its annual Finance Drive. Mrs. G. H. Sherrerd, president, reports that some 60 members will be contacting local businesses and citizens who have shown an interest in community affairs to seek financial support for the League program and activities.

The stated purpose of the League is "To promote political responsibility through informed and active participation of citizens in government." The better known half of its program is the work which the League performs in its local community under Voters Service, urging citizens to register and vote and by supplying non-partisan information on candidates for local, state and national elections. The other half of the League program is directed toward studies of national, state, and local governmental issues. Among these are such diverse subjects as: Evaluation of U.S. relations with the People's Republic of China; a study and evaluation of fiscal policies in Massachusetts; and an evaluation of recreational facilities and programs in Andover.

The fall finance drive is the only fund-raising activity of the League throughout the year, and it offers members an opportunity to discuss issues of mutual concern with friends in the community and to explain the function of the League. Mrs. Jerald M. Cornwell is chairman.

Want To Live Abroad?

AFS To Explain Student Program

There will be an open meeting at Andover High School on Tuesday, Oct. 3 at 8 p.m. to acquaint senior high students and their parents with the American Field Service Americans Abroad program for 1968-69.

Two Andover girls have had summers abroad under this program which places American students in foreign homes for either the school year or the vacation season. Miss Kathy Mueller went to the Philippines and Miss Lissa Vogt went to Germany.

Mrs. J. Edison Pike and members of her committee will be at the meeting to explain the program and answer questions. Working with her are Mrs. Charles Coppetta, Mrs. Charles Kirk, Mrs. Walter Whinn, Donald Sagaser, Allen Willard and Mrs. Victor Duxbury.

AFS also has an international scholarship program which brings foreign students to this country for a year of study. The young people live with a host family while they attend school.

Andover has had seven such students at Andover High School over the years and Miss Claudia Moniz Freire from Rio de Janeiro, Brazil is here this year. She is making her home with Dr. and Mrs. Milton Greenberg and their family.

The Andover AFS chapter is actively looking for families interested in having a foreign student live with them next year. Mrs. Herbert Lake will be at the open meeting next week to answer questions about this part of the AFS program. Persons who cannot attend the meeting, but who are interested in finding out more about host families may contact Dr. and Mrs. John Webster or Mr. and Mrs. Vahey Gulezian.

If you ever think that you're mad at the latest fashions, it probably means that you're mad at your present figure. Whatever "they" are wearing in any season, it isn't a roll of fat around the middle or a bustle effect made of human flesh. And if you think of clothes as a disguise, you're asking both too much and too little of fashion. A lively, shapely, healthy body is something to be proud of. Diet will help slim your figure, of course. But it cannot necessarily perfect a figure. Exercise is what can change you — redesign an arm, a leg, a waistline — give you a sense of joy in living.

We at CAPILO HAIR STYLISTS, 2 Riverina Rd., (Tel. 475-1639) sell and service wigs, wiglets and falls. Come in and see our selection. Open daily 9-6 p.m.; Fri. 9-8 p.m. You'll enjoy relaxing in our beautiful, air-conditioned salon. Call today and let us create a fashionable style for you!

Anti-War Committee Plans Future Strategy

The next meeting of the Greater Lawrence Committee Against the War in Vietnam will be held Oct. 11 at 7:45 p.m. in Memorial Hall Library. Anyone who is concerned about US involvement in the Southeast Asian conflict is invited to attend.

The committee met for a strategy session Wednesday to formulate ways the group can work more effectively in the search for peace. It was decided that the group will concentrate, among other categories of action, upon the professions and labor groups, draft counseling, speakers and discussions groups and leafletting and medical aid for the civilian casualties in South Vietnam.

Plans are being made for the mass mobilization in Washington in late October. It is expected that at least 1,000,000 people from throughout the country will assemble at the Pentagon to protest the present administration's Vietnam stand. A number of citizens will be going from this area and anyone interested in joining the Greater Lawrence group may contact the committee by writing Box 454 in Andover, or calling Mrs. Thomas Rees.

Three local ministers have volunteered to lead a discussion group on Vietnam. They are the Rev. Neal Fisher of North Andover, David Blanchard of North Andover and K. Bradford Campbell of Methuen. The Greater Lawrence Committee on Vietnam attended the Sept. 19 ministers' meeting held at the Unitarian Church in North Andover. Prof. Noam Chomsky of MIT was the guest speaker. Mr. Chomsky stressed that the present U. S. build-up could, with little provocation lead, to war with China in his opinion. He also expressed his concern that the bombing of North Vietnamese dikes could have disastrous and inhumane effects when the rainy season starts.

GOOD NEWS FOR PETS — Gov. John A. Volpe administers the oath of office to Dr. Richard S. School Cost Probe Initiated

The Board of Selectmen will expect a progress report on Oct. 16 from the committee to be named to make a comparison study of Andover School construction costs.

At the suggestion of Chairman Philip K. Allen, Selectmen William Stewart and Robert A. Watters were named to work with the chairman to form the nucleus of the lay committee requested last week by the School Committee. Dr. Richard Katz initiated the project.

Specifically, the school board asked the Selectmen to name a committee of "knowledgeable" people to determine if the costs of school building in this community are greater than in other; to determine what the reasons are for differences if any are found; and to offer suggestions for lessening the cost of school building construction in Andover while maintaining desired educational characteristics.

Presenting his request to his board Monday, Selectman Allen said he thought Town Manager Richard Bowen should be asked to "cease and desist" with all planning for future school construction until the report of this special committee can be made available to the board and the public.

He said the school department request "reflects by inference on the school building committee . . .

inferring that the costs of the Bancroft School (the most recent school voted) were inordinate." He added that he feels the school board proposal "throws doubt on the integrity, skill and competence of the building committee" and expressed his personal resentment of the inference.

Other members of the board objected to the plan for halting school planning during the period of inquiry and finally compromised by voting to ask for a preliminary report by Oct. 16. If the findings of the committee are inconclusive on that date, the matter will be reconsidered.

During the discussion, Manager Bowen called attention to a newspaper report of costs for a school addition in North Andover which contrasted square foot estimates of $19.95 with that of just over $30 per square foot for the Bancroft School. He said he used the report to illustrate the danger of comparing "apples with oranges" and noted that the North Andover figure excluded architect's fees site improvement and the cost of breaking through an existing wall to add the new wing. If square foot costs for the Bancroft School are figured on the same basis, also leaving out such extras as air conditioning and carpeting which are not planned for in North Andover, he said the square foot figure for the Andover school will match that of the neighboring community.

The manager also called the board's attention to the fact that bids for a new elementary school in Methuen, one about half the size of the Bancroft School, were reported last week to be well over the $860,000 appropriation.

HS Work Appears Speedier

There were 10 painters working at the new senior high school Wednesday as against four a week ago.

Town Manager Richard Bowen was taking this as a sign of progress and an indication that E. H. Porter Co. was responding to the criticism of its construction schedule expressed by the school building committee last Thursday.

He said that the building committee will meet again tonight for further review of progress and a decision about whether or not the committee believes the contractor can have the school ready for occupancy on Dec. 15, the date set in his most recent commitment. For some months, Porter spokesmen maintained that the school would be ready for use at the beginning of the school term this fall.

So far the building committee is holding the builder to his contracted agreement for delivery on Aug. 1 which means that he is being assessed a penalty at the rate of $100 a day. Porter has requested an official extension of time, but no such extension has been approved.

The man who finds real pleasure in his chosen work never has to ask for a raise in wages.

CRONIN

A year earlier he was elected to the Andover Board of Selectmen at the age of 25 and became the youngest man ever to hold a seat on this municipal board. He did not seek re-election at the end of his term.

A former student at Merrimack College and a graduate of Boston University with degrees in economics and government, Cronin was on the corporate staff and director of corporate relations for Edgerton, Germeshausen & Grier, a Boston research and development corporation, before his association with Congressman Morse.

The candidate is a member and active in the affairs of many Greater Lawrence, Essex County and state civic and fraternal organizations.

He is also the recipient of a number of awards. In 1964 the Andover Jaycees gave him their annual Young Man of the Year Award and in 1965 he received the Greater Lawrence Young Republicans' second annual Distinguished Service Award. He has also been presented a Paul Revere Leadership Medal by the Boston Chamber of Commerce and a National Good Citizens Award by the Mutual Trust Life Insurance Co.

Cronin and his wife, the former Kathleen J. Sears, live at 8 Pynchard Ave. with their two children, Kevin and Kimberley.

The man who knows where he is going has no time to stop at the loitering places.

PRETTY PILOT PREPARES for New England Air Race. Mrs. William Annis of 5 Elm St. will enter the October competition.

Safe In The Clouds

Powder Puff Pilot Fulfills Ambition

With five children, ages 14 to 19, and a steady job as a tester at Western Electric's Merrimack Valley works, Mrs. Robina (Polly) Annis, of 5 Elm Ct., would seem to be a woman with both feet solidly on the ground.

This may be true, but it's also true that her head and heart are in the clouds.

Polly is a pilot. She qualified for her pilot's license more than two years ago, and is as much at home now in a cockpit as in a kitchen.

Why does a woman take up flying?

"Well, in my case, it was the fulfillment of a life-long ambition," says Polly. "I'd always wanted to fly."

As far as risk is concerned, she says emphatically, "It's actually a lot safer up there in a plane than on the ground in a car."

"And the view is marvelous," she adds. "New England is lovely from the air. People ask me what I think about when I'm flying solo. Well, most of the time I keep wishing I had someone with me to share the scenery down below."

"You see some odd sights occasionally, too," she continues. "For instance, once when I was flying with a friend, we saw something round against the under side of a cloud. My friend thought it was a weather balloon, but it turned out to be a parachutist stuck under the cloud - he was in an updraft that had stopped his descent. While we watched, another pilot flew just close enough to him to create an air current, and he started down again."

Polly is a member of the New England Section of Ninety-Nines Inc. (International Organization of Licensed Women Pilots), which each year sponsors the All-Woman New England Air Race (AWNEAR).

This year, on Oct. 7 at Norwood, Mass., she will enter the race for the first time, flying as co-pilot to Mrs. Philip Osborne of Topsfield.

Many trophies and prizes are awarded in the event, which is a 275-mile cross-country proficiency race for stock model aircraft of not more than 400 horsepower. It is open to contestants from New England, New York, Pennsylvania and Canada.

Polly is quite naturally excited about the forthcoming air contest, as are her husband, William Annis and the five children, all non-fliers. Whether she wins or loses, there will undoubtedly be six stiff necks in the Annis family on Oct. 8 - the result of a great deal of anxious sky-scanning.

MD Carnival Is Scheduled

A neighborhood carnival for the benefit of muscular dystrophy victims will be held on Oct. 12 at 31 Dufton Rd., Russell Edward Whitton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Whitton will serve as ringmaster, assisted by Dennis Whitton and Mark Hanlon.

The Carnival, which will be between 10:30 a.m. to 3 p.m., will feature a Penny Sale, French Book Stall and a Tin Target. All proceeds will go to aid the fight against dystrophy and related diseases.

The children got the idea for staging their event while watching TV personality Rex Trailer who is promoting Carnivals on his "Boombtown" children's show.

Last year, in cooperation with Muscular Dystrophy Association of America, more than 16,970 Carnivals were held by children across the country, and over $275,822 was raised for MDAA's research and patient service programs.

Editorial Comment

An Inquiry

Does it cost more to build public schools in Andover than elsewhere in Massachusetts? The School Committee wants to know.

The Selectmen have agreed to appoint a committee to collect statistics and evaluate data with a view to answering this perennial question. If the answer is found to be in the affirmative, the committee is further charged with the responsibility for making suggestions for lessening the cost of local construction.

Before the study is even begun, it is safe to say that it does cost more to build schools in Andover than in some Commonwealth communities for the standards of the school department and the demands of the public here for quality education are greater than they are in some other towns and cities. What the committee must determine is whether or not Andover is getting as much of what it wants, dollar for dollar, as communities supporting comparable educational and building programs.

There are ways to economize in school construction that Andover has traditionally avoided: a great deal can be done, for example, with standardization of plans and prefabrication. Perhaps now, when age-old concepts of public school education are giving way to change, is a good time to evaluate the practice of building schools to outlive the programs for which they were designed.

If there are to be economies in school construction, it is possible that the only way to realize them is to build with obsolescence in mind, making greater use of techniques developed for mass construction.

So long as Andover has decided to explore the question of costs, let us hope the committee selected will not be content to simply determine that Andover is or is not doing as good a job with school construction as other New England towns. What the committee should really be looking for are new approaches to construction that can solve school space problems and at the same time leave something in the till for the even more important items in the school budget — program and personnel.

With Affection . . .

Miriam Putnam has gone from Memorial Hall, leaving behind a strong, balanced and lively library as evidence of 28 years of dedication, hard work and devotion.

Andover's public library is a force and influence in this community largely because of the enthusiasm and support Miriam Putnam has managed to inspire and keep alive for more than a quarter of a century. In that span of years, she supervised the planning for two major building projects and worked with a succession of trustees and staff members to build a collection of books that has brought Memorial Hall recognition as one of the outstanding public libraries in this region.

It was to be expected that a woman like Miss Putnam would not be content to idle along toward retirement and sink into the comfort of stagnation when it came. It cannot be a surprise to anyone who knows her that at a time in life when many people are content to sit back and watch the world go by, this vital, vigorous woman has sought and accepted a new challenge.

As director of this town's library, Miss Putnam has earned the affection and respect of a generation of Andover readers; there can be no risk in predicting that she will be just as successful in Talledega, Ala.

On behalf of a grateful community, we wish her well.

As Others See It

U.S. Landscape Wrecked

by Ian Nairn

(Excerpt from the London Observer)

"I recently drove around the eastern United States for the first time in seven years.

"What struck me most was the degree to which, in that short time, the American landscape had been wrecked.

"You can drive from Boston to Washington - 400 miles - almost without ever being in a real town or real country.

"Far worse, you can drive for hundreds of miles in what is supposed to be rural America without ever feeling really free of the suburban tentacles.

"There is plenty of open land; the industry is sporadic.

"But there is no end to the villas and the gas stations and the drive-ins.

"Every few yards, often miles from a recognizable center, up pops another fragment of urban clutter: bungalows in cut-down colonial style, a bar-b-que stand in jazz modern with the gusto taken out of it, an antique shop with some genuine fragments around the door, a gaunt high school far from the centers it serves, a new Baptist church which is simply a square box with holes. Almost all have been built within the last 20 years.

"This is an environment of total confusion and mediocrity.

"After a few miles of it the driver no longer cares whether he is in Maine or Texas: he just wants to get the hell out.

"Yet, stop the car and walk a few yards into the trees and you are in primeval America.

"A visitor who traveled by air or on one of the new interstate motorways might think that the whole country was still a Thoreau idyll. But this land is mostly inaccessible - and hence pointless.

"It is a crazy situation and I think it has some crazy human consequences. But this disintegrated landscape was not caused by the pressure of population.

"In Western European terms, the United States has no suburban problem at all; as the density of England and Wales - which still allows some of the world's nicest rural landscape in a large mountain area - the whole population of the United States could comfortably be fitted into Texas.

"So it is not the numbers of people but the way they are distributed that has caused this mess.

"It is 90 miles from New York to Philadelphia and there are only about five miles of countryside between them, around Princeton,

"The landscape has gone, nobody is much better off and the chance for a genuine super city - the kind of multi-centered pattern that works well in Holland, linking up Rotterdam, Delft, The Hague, Leyden, Haarlem and Amsterdam - has been lost forever.

"Dispersion has inevitably wrecked the existing town centers.

"Rather than re-use and adapt, a slice of what you might call Roadtown is put down next to the old streets perhaps half a mile away - motels, gas stations, diners and supermarkets all shouting at the top of their voices.

"The available urban energy and personality are split between them so that Roadtown looks like a pallid imitation of Las Vegas and the old core of the towns falls in with empty blocks and parking lots.

"I think that a half-century of violence to the environment has produced a population which, in the main, no longer knows or cares whether town or country has any pattern above the satisfaction of immediate personal needs.

"The American landscape is the visible graveyard of all our misconceptions about city planning, individual liberty and free enterprise."

Nature's Ways

Migrating Hawks Produce Sky Pageant

By Wayne Hanley

In late September, one may witness a grand pageant merely by looking up.

The hawks now are migrating. With modest luck, one may see a broad-winged hawk or a red-tailed hawk etching those "lazy circles in the sky" of Oklahoma fame.

A few migrating hawks may be seen almost anywhere in New England. Recently I was watching high, scudding clouds that fringes of Hurricane Doria had flung across the northern Worcester County sky and noted a black speck moving counter-clockwise against a cloud. A binocular enlarged the speck to a soaring broadwing. The glasses also picked up another broadwing, circling in the blue without a cloud backdrop. The birds spiraled slowly southward. They were moving from Maine or New Hampshire, perhaps, on their regular circuit that carries them to Central or South America for the winter. Few broadwings remain in the United States over the winter, and almost none north of southern Florida.

While it is true that one may see a migrating hawk from almost any point in New England, it is equally true that he must choose certain points if he expects to see many. The Connecticut River, for instance, serves as a major marker for migrating hawks and the air above its valley becomes a hawk highway.

A famous vantage point along the Connecticut Valley is Mt. Tom in Massachusetts. Records compiled there rival those of Cape May, New Jersey, or Hawk Mountain, Pa. From Mt. Tom in one week, Mrs. Frances Eldins of Belmont counted 4106 broadwings, and Joseph A. Hagar, retired state ornithologist, in two days counted 3191 broadwings.

But these are records of the recent past. Although they occurred a decade or two ago, such counts may not be repeated in our time. For the broadwing's numbers are sparser today. They may indeed be following the decline toward oblivion that has overtaken the red-shouldered hawk, the peregrine falcon, the osprey, and that massive, majestic hawk that we know as the bald eagle.

A combination of factors seems to be cutting the hawks from the sky. The inroads that an expanding human population makes on the countryside would reduce some of the hawks that prefer a wild expanse. There are, however, two things which affect hawks that could be curbed. Almost all hawks whose flesh or eggs have been analyzed show massive doses of pesticides. And, despite the fact that the value of hawks to man and to other wildlife has been known for decades and despite the protection of law in most states, many hawks are shot each year. At least three bald eagles have been shot in New England within two years, although a federal law prescribes a $500 fine for the offense and federal agents are alert in enforcing the law.

All three known cases of eagle slaughter involved immature eagles. At least one was shot by a man who thought it was "a big, brown hawk". Bald eagles do not attain a wholly white head and tail until they are four years old. In youth, bald eagles are dark birds, distinguished from other hawks mainly by their large size.

As in all sports, you cannot tell the players without a program. For a free hawk chart showing patterns our eastern hawks display while flying overhead, send a large, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Public Relations, Massachusetts Audubon Society, Lincoln, Mass. 01773.

New Great Books Group Meets Next Month

Initial program of the fall season for the second group reading and discussing Great Books is scheduled for 8 p.m. Oct. 19 at the library. The topic is of CIVIL GOVERNMENT by John Locke, with co-leaders Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Smith, Andover. Anyone who would like to join the group may get in touch with the Smiths for further information. Great Book meetings are open to the public. Members read a pre-selected book and meet with their neighbors to share reactions to some of the key thinking of writers of the Western world. If you have been meaning to join but have not as yet done so, why not start with this meeting?

Copies of Locke's essay concerning civil government are available at the library. To quote: "Freedom then is not . . . a liberty for everyone to do what he lists, to live as he pleases, and not to be tied by any law . . . but freedom of men under government is to have a standing rule to live by, common to every one of that society. . ."

Film Catalog

The 1967-68 catalog of films which may be borrowed through Memorial Hall Library is now ready. Ask at the desk in the main reading room or pick one up in the audio-visual room.

The library belongs to the co-operative film pool which provides at least six movies at a time to each member library. Usually there are three for children and three for adults and three young adults in the library at any one time. Community groups and organizations and family groups are welcome to look over the catalog and make reservations for those they would like to show. Loans are free.

Films should be booked as far in advance as possible. They are to be picked up on date of use and are due back at the library the following day.

Films to be available between Oct. 2 and 20 are:
DINOSAUR AGE - Dinosaurs presented through fossil reconstruction.

NEW ENGLAND SEA COMMUNITY - Daily life in a seacoast town, 1845.

Also at Memorial Hall Library is a collection of film catalogs. Rental fees, postage and insurance for borrowing such films are to be borne by the borrower and not by the library. If your group needs help with program planning, feel free to ask the assistance of the audio-visual staff.

FATE OF SCENERY

The poor example of Route 128, where strip industrial development has destroyed the scenic quality of long stretches of highway, was cited by numerous speakers.

Moderator James Woglum, director of community planning and renewal, Metcalf & Eddy, pointed out that in the scramble for industrial development, communities often lose sight of the value of keeping land open. He cited a study by Dr. Jerome Pickard which showed that 2-3 acre residential zoning was more advantageous to the tax income of a community than industrial development. It was also pointed out that tourism, now the second largest industry in Massachusetts, depends on the state's historic and scenic attractions in order to flourish.

The need for preserving the beauty of this prize-winning highway was stressed as well by Lt. Governor Francis Sargent, who addressed the afternoon session of the group. He stated that there must be a "happy marriage between development and protection of our natural resources" if the benefits of the highway are to be fully realized. He pledged State cooperation in efforts to guide and control development along the highway.

Discussions at morning and afternoon sessions were concerned with means of achieving these goals. Creation of a natural buffer strip along the highway, enactment of a scenic highway zoning district, legislation to provide tax incentives for keeping land open were among proposals made. One suggestion that gained favor as a practical and immediate step which could be taken was that for use of the five existing regional planning districts which border the highway in a Route 495 regional study which could be conducted as a joint undertaking or as a project of one district. The further suggestion was made that the State Division of Planning of the Department of Commerce and the Department of Natural Resources participate in this effort.

What's Your Problem?

Counselor Can Help Unravel Problems

This is a series offered by Family Service Association of Greater Lawrence, affiliated with United Fund of Greater Lawrence. It deals with problems that a great many people bring to counseling agencies to discuss and work out. The professional staff members of Family Service are social workers with graduate degrees and extensive experience in helping people solve problems.

Someone who is deeply enmeshed in a personal problem often asks: "How can talking to a professional counselor help me? I know what I need. I need more money, or a better husband, or a long vacation. A counselor can't help me to get any or all of these things, so what's the use?"

Actually a person with a problem (or with a whole series of problems, which is more usual) may not be able to judge at all what is the cause for all that unhappiness. By himself, he can look at his troubles from only one angle: his own. Often the events of his childhood and youth that have shaped his feelings and attitudes are the ones which have caused his problems in the first place. They also make it impossible for him to look at what's happening in the present either realistically or objectively.

There's the man who has always felt that failure was an unforgivable sin. He can't allow himself to fail at anything. He may even regard as failure something that everyone else would consider a huge success. Until, with the help of a counselor he finds out that he is really expecting the impossible from himself, he won't be able to stop driving himself beyond all reasonable limits.

There's the woman who was always expected to be the best little girl in the block. Her room had to be immaculately clean, her dress perfectly pressed, and as one such young lady once put it: "When I lost a library book, I felt I wasn't going to heaven". When this "perfect" little girl grows up, she will probably find that she cannot meet her own standards, particularly with three small children, two dogs, and a husband who was not the best little boy in the block. A counselor can help her to see what she reasonably can expect of herself, to understand that by most standards she's not a slob, but a perfectly fine housekeeper and mother.

What's more the man who feels he's a failure or the woman who feels she's a slob may, because of a sense of guilt, provoke punishment from those around them. After all, when they were children, and they did something "bad" they were punished. The man may provoke his boss or the wife her husband, without realizing they are doing this. If they can't persuade someone to punish them, they may punish themselves. The man may get ulcers or the woman may fall down the cellar stairs, because she "forgot" to turn on the light.

Family counselors know that people often follow patterns of behavior all their lives, without even knowing that the pattern exists. People also accept certain ideas as facts without being aware that they are doing this. For instance, you can lose a library book and still be a fine person. And getting a B on a test (or not being promoted quite as fast and as far on your job) does not mean you are a failure.

A counselor can help a person discover whether he is unconsciously following a pattern of behavior which is leading him into unhappiness and perhaps, into repeated disaster. A counselor can also help a person to accept himself and to trust himself, which in turn will make it more possible to accept and to trust others.

Family counselors can't solve anyone's problems for him. They don't come fully equipped with credit cards entitling those who seek help to larger incomes, better spouses and long vacations. But by helping people in trouble to learn more about themselves and their feeling and ideas, they can also help these people to find their own directions. And the only way to clarify feelings and ideas is to put them into words. That's what talking is all about.

Morse Supports Resolution On Vietnam

Twenty-four Members of Congress joined with Congressman Morse Monday in filing a resolution that "the appropriate committees of the Congress shall immediately consider and report to their respective bodies their determination as to whether further Congressional action is desirable in respect to policies in Southeast Asia."

This resolution is part of an effort undertaken by Congressman Paul Findley of Illinois and Congressman Morse to give the Congress an opportunity to review its role in our Government's policies in Southeast Asia. On the Floor of the House, Morse stated that the language of the resolution should not be construed to imply an endorsement or criticism of our past policies in that area. "This is," he said, "rather, a bi-partisan effort to bring into focus the traditional and Constitutional responsibility of the Congress in the conduct of our nation's foreign policy, specifically its role in the conduct of a foreign war of major proportions." He assured his colleagues in the House that Congress should not seek to enlarge its role beyond proper limits or share in decisions which are for the President alone to make, but emphasized that it is just as important for the Congress to fulfill its Constitutional role as it is for the President to fulfill his.

The Massachusetts Congressman stated that, "If we agree, and I think we must, that the Congress should to an appropriate degree influence the conduct of major foreign policy undertakings, then I think we face the question: Has the Congress fully exercised its role in regard to our policies in Southeast Asia, in particular with reference to the War in Vietnam?"

Since the Gulf of Tonkin Resolution of August 10, 1964, which has been the only direct expression of the Congress on the subject, the situation in Southeast Asia has changed greatly. "This is a new war", Morse stated. "Today it is increasingly an American war, being fought in large measure by Americans. In the last three years, the number of American troops in Vietnam has increased from 16,300 to 465,000 and more are on their way. The number of American casualties in Vietnam is six times the number of men who were in Vietnam when the Tonkin Gulf Resolution was passed," Morse continued, "and the number is mounting with each passing day." He pointed out that in August 1964 there was no bombing in North Vietnam, but that now we are bombing targets close to the Chinese border. Now many of our pilots and servicemen are prisoners in North Vietnam, and thousands of American civilians are engaged in pacification efforts in South Vietnam.

"This is also a new Congress", Congressman Morse stated. The Gulf of Tonkin Resolution was passed by the 88th Congress, but in this 90th Congress there are 133 members of the House alone who were not members of the 88th and who have never had the chance formally to express themselves on the war. "The Representatives in the 90th Congress of over 10 million Americans have not had an opportunity to vote on this most critical national issue."

wish themselves. The man may get ulcers or the woman may fall down the cellar stairs, because she forgot to turn on the light. Family counselors know that people often follow patterns of behavior all their lives, without even knowing that the patterns exist. People also accept certain things as facts without being aware that they are doing this. For instance, you can lose a library book and still be a fine person, and getting a B on a test (or not being promoted quite as fast and far on your job) does not mean you are a failure.

A counselor can help a person discover whether he is unconsciously following a pattern of behavior which is leading him to unhappiness and perhaps, into a disaster. A counselor can also help a person to accept himself and to trust himself, which in turn will make it more possible to accept and to trust others. Family counselors can't solve anyone's problems for him. They can't come fully equipped with credit cards entitling those who seek help to larger incomes, better spouses and long vacations. But by helping people in trouble learn more about themselves and their feeling and ideas, they can also help these people to find their own directions. And the only way to clarify feelings and ideas is to put them into words. That's what talking is all about.

Two Are Merit Semi-Finalists

Principal Philip F. Wormwood has announced that two students who were tested at Andover High School for the 1967-68 National Merit Scholarship Program have been named semi-finalists.

The first is Virginia Campbell, a senior, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Campbell, 5 Thresher Rd. The second is Samuel Bell who is already a student at St. John's College in Annapolis, Md. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Bell of 22 Pasho St.

Bell was accepted as a college freshman a year ahead of schedule because of his outstanding performance at Andover High and his record on college board examinations. He is still eligible for a Merit Scholarship award.

The 14,000 semifinalists appointed throughout the nation have advanced to the second step in the competition for about 2,900 Merit Scholarships, valued at more than $8 million.

Semifinalists scored the highest in each state on the National Merit Scholarship qualifying test given last February. They constitute less than one percent of the graduating secondary school seniors in the nation.

Semifinalists must advance to finalist standing to be considered for Merit Scholarships, since all winners will be selected from the finalist group. Semifinalists become finalists by receiving the endorsement of their schools, taking a second examination, and submitting information about their achievements and interests.

Every Semifinalist who becomes a finalist will be considered for one of about 2,400 four-year Merit Scholarships financed by some 400 corporations, foundations, colleges, unions, trusts, professional associations, other organizations, and individuals, and by NMSC itself. In addition, about 500 one-time National Merit $1,000 Scholarships will be awarded for the first time in 1968.

AFL-CIO Seeks Exclusivity At Revenue Service Center

The American Federation of Government Employees, AFL-CIO, Lodge #2078, announces an organizing campaign to gain exclusive bargaining rights for over 2,000 IRS employees at the North Atlantic Service Center here in Andover.

In a joint news release, Guy Colletti, AFGE National Representative, and Frank O'Riordan, lodge president, states that the American Federation of Government Employees, AFL-CIO the largest labor organization representing federal employees, with over 250,000 members, will initiate their program Oct. 2. AFGE Lodge #2078, now the only Union holding Formal Recognition at the Center, with over 400 members, is certain their statement of policy will be accepted by the majority of employees. Its prime purpose is to improve working conditions.

In an election held last February for these bargaining rights, AFGE was successful in defeating the independent association, NAIRE, by almost a 3-1 margin but due to the hazardous weather conditions on election day a majority of employees did not vote, according to IRS officials.

AFGE has also unseated the independent in IRS offices in Los Angeles, New York and Florida.

Judge Orders: Pay Your Way

A Lawrence judge placed two Andover youths on a year's probation Monday and ordered them, along with two juveniles, to earn the money themselves to pay for the malicious damage they did at Indian Ridge Country Club on the night of Aug. 22.

Judge Joseph F. Bacigalupo heard the case. The defendants were James M. Franz, 4 Harding St. and Ronald E. Hancock, 28 Boston Rd.

The youths and two companions apparently played dodgems with two golf carts, damaging the carts and digging up the turf on a number of greens in the process.

Many a man looks for opportunity with one eye and tries to dodge work at the same time.
